

COLOR ME

Disguised as men, Mary Read and Anne Bonney were successful pirates in the Caribbean during the 17th Century.

HM HistoryMiami Museum

101 West Flagler Street, Miami, FL 33130 • 305-375-1492 • www.historymiami.org #HMTurns80 #HistoryMiami

COLOR ME

More than 10,000 years ago, Miami was a wilderness packed with prehistoric beasts, such as the dire wolf, and the mammoth.

HM HistoryMiami Museum

101 West Flagler Street, Miami, FL 33130 • 305-375-1492 • www.historymiami.org     #HMTurns80 #HistoryMiami

COLOR ME

As a child, Victoria Bassil loved to ride the Buena Vista trolley to downtown Miami. Read her story at www.historymiami.org/miami-stories.

HM HistoryMiami Museum

101 West Flagler Street, Miami, FL 33130 • 305-375-1492 • www.historymiami.org     #HMTurns80 #HistoryMiami

COLOR ME

Known as the Florida Straits, Key West's coral reef extends 150 miles north towards Miami and 70 miles west to the Dry Tortugas. It's the largest in North America and the third largest in the world.

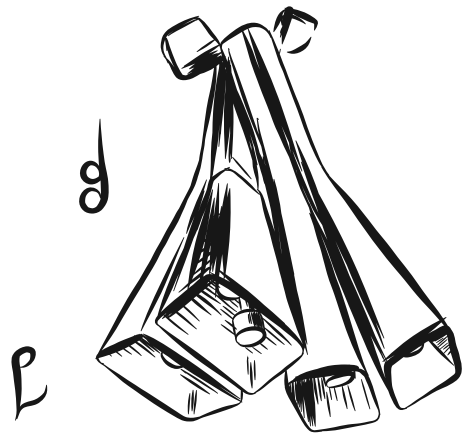

COLOR ME

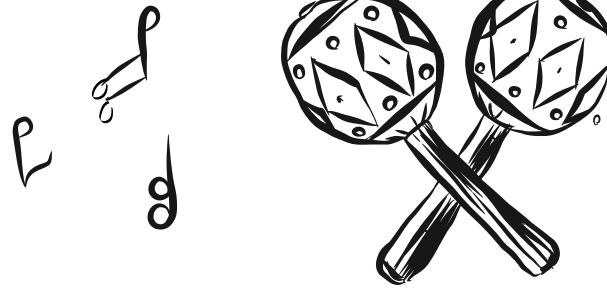

There are at least nine different ecosystems that work together to sustain life in the Everglades. These include coastal mangroves, pine flatwoods, hardwood hammocks, and freshwater marl prairies.

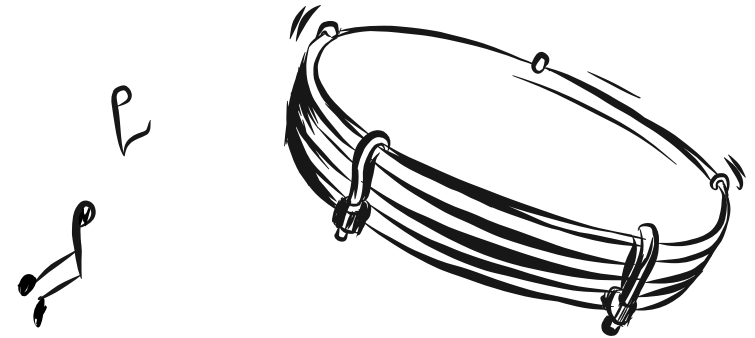

COLOR ME

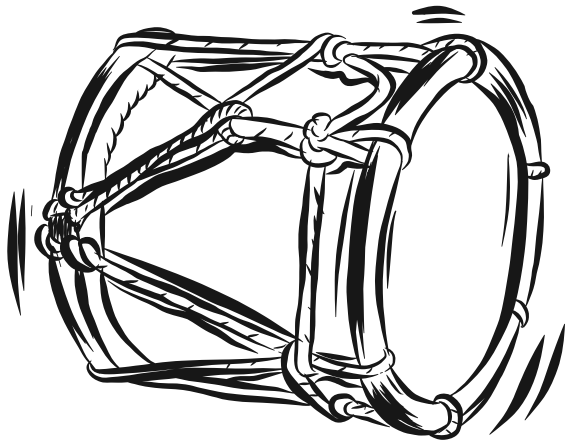

Junkanoo cowbells, Bahamas

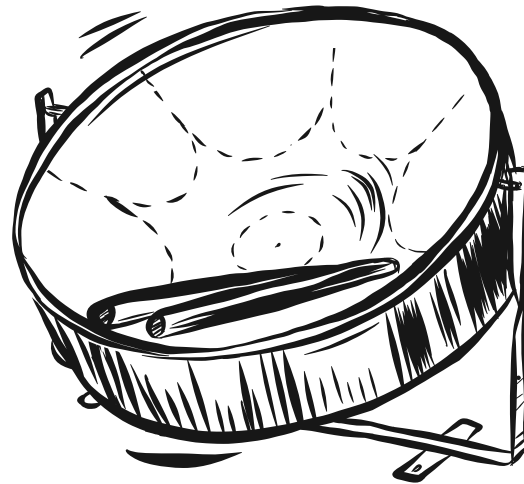

Maracas, Jamaica

Pandero de Plena, Puerto Rico

Tambora, Dominican Republic

Steelpan, Trinidad

Shekere, Cuba

Rara drum, Haiti

Percussion instruments are musical instruments that generally are used to establish rhythm. Percussion instruments make a sound when they are struck, shaken, scraped, plucked, or rubbed.